

THE CENTER FOR AFRICAN AMERICAN RESEARCH & POLICY

"answering one question at a time"

JERLANDO F. L. JACKSON, PH.D.
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Call for Proposals-Policy Briefs Publication (Two Calls for Proposals)

Media Coverage of African Americans in the United States: Equal or Unequal Treatment

The Center for African American Research and Policy, the research arm of the Brothers of the Academy Institute invites proposals for consideration in one of its new publications entitled Policy Briefs. The topic for this policy brief is "Media Coverage of African Americans in the United States: Equal or Unequal Treatment." The Center for African American Research and Policy invites documents which outline the rationale for choosing a particular policy alternative or course of action in a current policy debate specifically examining this topic.

Proposal Submission Guidelines: All proposals for this Policy Brief topic should be submitted online at <http://www.caarpweb.org/publications/submission.php> by September 1, 2005. Each proposal should be in MS Word format and no longer than 5 double space pages. The proposal should include: objectives and purposes; perspective(s) or theoretical framework; methods, techniques, or modes of inquiry; data sources and evidence; and practical or scientific importance of the study. In addition, all proposals should include name(s) of each author, university affiliation, phone number and e-mail address. More information about Policy Briefs can be found at: <http://www.caarpweb.org/publications/pb.php>

Should NCAA Athletes Be Paid? Implications for African American Students

The Center for African American Research and Policy, the research arm of the Brothers of the Academy Institute invites proposals for consideration in one of its new publications entitled Policy Briefs. The topic for this policy brief is "Should NCAA Athletes Be Paid? Implications for African American Students." The Center for African American Research and Policy invites documents which outline the rationale for choosing a particular policy alternative or course of action in a current policy debate specifically examining this topic.

Proposal Submission Guidelines: All proposals for this Policy Brief topic should be submitted online at <http://www.caarpweb.org/publications/submission.php> by October 1, 2005. Each proposal should be in MS Word format and no longer than 5 double space pages. The proposal should include: objectives and purposes; perspective(s) or theoretical framework; methods, techniques, or modes of inquiry; data sources and evidence; and practical or scientific importance of the study. In addition, all proposals should include name(s) of each author, university affiliation, phone number and e-mail address. More information about Policy Briefs can be found at: <http://www.caarpweb.org/publications/pb.php>